Incidents:

MITIGATION ACTIVITIES

Mitigation activities in the City are designed to decrease the impact of an incident. Factors considered when determining mitigation activities include: protection of the environment, the importance of parks and public facilities, and resilient transportation options. The following strategies are intended to simultaneously increase the self sufficiency of City's residents and strengthen the City's resiliency.

- Promote incident preparedness through outreach activities with citizens

- Develop alternate service-centers in less-hazardous areas

- Promote retrofitting with safe-to-fail mechanisms

- Invest resources in creating more resilient transportation networks

- Develop and deliver business outreach programs
